School in the Slums

- Slums – лашықтар
- Locks – құлыптар
- Guards — күзетшілер
- Permission — рұқсат

Mellish school is in the slums of Brooklyn for pupils between twelve and fifteen years of age. There are about 1500 pupils there, and 90 teachers.

It's a problem school, perhaps one of the most difficult schools in America. The white teachers can't walk to the school because they may be attacked. They all drive to school, and their cars have special locks. There's always a black policeman at the door of the school. He has a radio contact with the school guards. Pupils must have a written permission from the teacher if they want to go to the toilet. There's a guard outside the washroom. Only one child can go into the washroom at a time, and he can't stay there long.

The children who live in that district go to that school. They are all black children. However, why do the teachers work there?

"It's very hard of course," says Jane Flinch, a forty- five-year-old teacher. Most children have problems at home. Some of them are beaten by their parents. Some of them sleep at the lessons because they had to work at night. Some of the children get sick at the lessons because they didn't have breakfast or even a meal for a day or two.

It's the love of the job that keeps the teachers in that school. They teach and do social work. They feel that they are doing something good for the children who need help.

"There's also the problem of violence," says one of the teachers. "Sometimes when I go into a class, I can feel that some of the children are like a dynamite. However, I feel quite safe. I am sure that other pupils will help me." There is very little money for teaching in that school. There is no money to buy food for the children.

The principal of the school has been there for many years. A lot of his happy optimism has gone. "No, I'm not optimistic about the future. Look around you," he says and points out of the window at the high wall round the school. "It's not a very bright sight: buildings have holes instead of the windows, shops are closed, and groups of people are sitting on the steps of the houses. They have nowhere to go and nothing to do."

"We need money," he says, "money is the only way to help this school and these people, and, of course, jobs for the people."

Task 1. Choose the right variant

1. Mellish school is for
  - a) small children.

Online shopping. (90-100 words)

The online shopping is very profitable. You can buy anything you want online by phone. Online shopping is a form of electronic commerce which allows consumers to directly buy goods or services from a selling. Today we can do shopping not only at markets and stores but also on the internet. There is a great variety of online shops. Firstly, online shopping saves one from travel and traffic problems. I live in the outskirts of Karachi and commuting to the city. Nowadays it's becoming more and more popular to shop online. I'm firmly convinced that. It's the most comfortable way. (100 words)

Writing. Write an essay about online shopping

The invention of the Internet has brought changes to all areas of our lives. And now we can make such a banal thing as the purchase of goods online. Let us consider all the advantages and disadvantages of this phenomenon.

The most obvious benefit of visiting online stores is saving time. You do not need to spend time getting to the store and then there, look for the right product on the shelves. You can simply drive the name of the thing you need into the search engine and see a wide selection from different manufactures and accordingly, in a wide price range. Another advantage of online purchases is the opportunity to save on the cost of goods, since you buy online directly from the manufacturer, bypassing numerous.

Like every phenomenon online shopping has its negative aspects. Firstly, the delivery of goods can take a long time. It means that you must not buy essential goods in this way. Moreover having spent money on something, you will not be able to use it immediately and it introduces certain inconveniences. Secondly, you can receive goods of inadequate quality, with defects, and you will have to prove that these flaws appeared not through your fault. Thirdly an unscrupulous owner of web pages can simply appropriate your money, therefore, you need to make purchases only on trusted sites.
